Good afternoon HVS families,

I hope this email finds you and your family in good health and spirits. Our HVS staff diligently worked on finalizing plans for E-Learning yesterday. As of today, you will begin receiving communication with activities and assignments for your child from both teachers and related service providers. Communications will be sent to you through a variety of sources including: Email (All Students), Schoology (MS/HS Students), Class Dojo (Elementary Students), and Phone Conversations. Online resources are also available on our website, henryviscardischool.org, by clicking on the E-Learning tab.

While a full educational experience would be difficult to provide through remote technology, please know that the dedicated HVS Staff is working in collaboration with each other and is committed to maintaining our home-to-school connection with you. With your support, we appreciate your partnership during this transition to remote learning.

Please do not hesitate to reach out to me or any HVS staff member if your family needs additional support during this difficult time. The HVS community is one of a kind and we will get through this together!

Sincerely,

Angelo Zegarelli
Head of School
